Metropolitan Region Scheme amendment No.1082/33

Bush Forever and related lands represents the implementation of a major strategic conservation initiative in the Perth metropolitan area. The purpose of this amendment is to—

- establish a Special Control Area (Bush Forever Protection Area) in the Metropolitan Region Scheme (MRS) over Bush Forever sites; and
- reserve a number of Bush Forever sites for Parks and Recreation within the MRS.

Statement of Planning Policy 2.8

A complementary Draft Bushland Policy for the Perth Metropolitan Region provides the detailed policy framework and requirements for Bush Forever Protection Areas. It provides guidelines on particular matters to be taken into account when considering development in a Bush Forever Protection Area.

For more information

Complete sets of plans showing all Bush Forever sites, MRS amending plans, the Commission's Amendment Report which explains the proposals, and the draft Statement of Planning Policy (SPP) are available for public inspection from 10 August 2004 to 12 November 2004 at each of the following locations—

Determinations

30 September 2004

Preamble

The Parliamentary Superannuation Legislation Amendment Act 2000 (the Amendment Act) was proclaimed in October 2000. This had the effect of significantly altering the Parliamentary Superannuation Act 1970 (the Act) and the Salaries and Allowances Act 1975. The resulting legislation widened the jurisdiction of the Tribunal in respect to parliamentary superannuation in Western Australia. The superannuation responsibilities of the Tribunal now cover the pre-existing contributory scheme, which closed on 10 October 2000, and the new non-contributory scheme for members coming into the Parliament after that date.

In 2001 and 2002 the Tribunal undertook an examination of the superannuation areas under its jurisdiction and issued relevant determinations on 1 July 2002 in the light of its deliberations. While the Tribunal continues to keep the matters under general review and has received further representations for change, it is not inclined to make any adjustments to the closed contributory scheme, particularly if they would have the effect of improving the benefits available. Furthermore, the Tribunal is mindful of the significant changes to parliamentary superannuation arrangements occurring at the national level, which may well be followed in other State jurisdictions. Until such time as the outcome of these initiatives can be fully assessed, the Tribunal can be expected to adopt a cautious approach, resulting in minimal amendment to the schemes now in place.

Two areas however, have been identified for action at this time.

The first of these relates to the setting of the interest rate applicable to the amount paid to a person not entitled to a pension, who ceases to be a member. Up until 2000 the Parliamentary Superannuation Board had responsibility under section 14(3) of the Act for determining the applicable rate and had for a longstanding period set this at ten per cent. The discretionary power was transferred to the Tribunal under the Amendment Act. As it was not an arrangement that the Tribunal sought to alter, no subsequent determination was made. However, in the light of there being no identified transitional provision, there may be room for some doubt about the continued application of the Parliamentary Superannuation Board's earlier decision. To dispel this, the Tribunal is issuing a determination to confirm application of the ten per cent interest rate with effect from commencement of the Amendment Act.

The second matter to be addressed now relates to the minimum benefit to be determined under section 24 of the Act—that is, the minimum benefit payable in respect of a member of Parliament who dies while in parliamentary office without a surviving spouse or dependents. As with the first matter, prior to commencement of the Amendment Act, responsibility for determining a minimum benefit rested with the Parliamentary Superannuation Board. The amount was calculated on the basis of the member contributions to the scheme plus ten per cent interest. In considering the issue, the Tribunal is cognisant of the fact that specific provision is now included in the Act for it to have regard to the requirements of the Superannuation Guarantee (Administration) Act 1992 of the Commonwealth. It has resolved that continuation of the Board's earlier approach is appropriate but with the proviso to cover obligations arising under the Commonwealth legislation.

The determinations will now issue.

Dated at Perth this 30th day of September 2004.
